A LITTLE BIT ABOUT ME

Madeline McQueen

 When Madeline McQueen steps onto the stage, the energy in the room palpably changes. She creates an authentic and electric atmosphere that offers her audience and clients permission to be exactly who they are without apology, by role-modelling what it means to embody self-confidence.

In a career that spans 35 years, she's graced the stage to inspire the workforces of brands ranging from Saatchi & Saatchi and Ogilvy to Google, SKY, and Nike. Married for 27 years, mother of two adult daughters, and now in her fifties, Madeline's vibrant mix of learnings, anecdotes, and experiences are shared freely with her audiences, who are encouraged to explore and reach their own full potential.

Madeline draws on her personal struggles, breakthroughs, and successes to guide her audience to greater clarity. In a single year, Madeline experienced a miscarriage, her husband's business collapsed, and they had to sell their house to go into rented accommodation. This experience guided Madeline on a self-development journey that underpins her methodology and practice. Having experienced the highs and lows of corporate life, working with start-ups and running her own business, Madeline found that if she could sell the most Toshiba laptops in the UK, close a £2m a year deal, and run a multi-6-figure company, then she can do just about anything.

A LITTLE BIT ABOUT ME

Recent research states that 35% of the workforce admit to a lack of confidence impacting their inability to ask for a pay rise, 32% hesitate to contribute their ideas, and a further 52% struggle to speak in public. A firm believer that this confidence deficit is at the heart of much of the inertia and discontent we see in our work and lives, Madeline's mission is to take her audience on a journey to build their confidence, harness their self-worth, and develop the innate leadership and the value they contribute.

"I believe that everyone is born magnificent, and with the help of greater clarity, confidence building, and empowerment, each of us can experience a thriving life. It takes work and practice, but it's certainly possible."

Madeline and her husband and business partner, David, have been featured in Forbes and are Brand Ambassadors for Palmers' skincare products, founders of Q Squared, and passionately involved in empowering younger generations of entrepreneurs and leaders.

As a multi-award-winning Executive Coach and TEDx Speaker in her own right, Madeline has reached many thousands of individuals as a speaker with her vivacious, humorous and down-to-earth honesty. She also uses her signature methodology to harness her client's self-worth so they can leverage their personal development for professional success.

GET CLEAR GET RESULTS

Every aspect of our lives is impacted by our questioning skills, but we are rarely taught what they are and how to use them to WIN. Knowing where you are going, what you want and why it is important to you can positively impact your career development.

In this speech, we look at the power of questions and how to use them to gain personal and professional clarity.

THE POWER OF NO

No, it's a word that we don't like to hear and struggle to say and yet it's the word that helps us to hold boundaries, teach people how to treat us and, quite frankly, get more done more effectively. In a world that is always on, how do you say 'No'?

WHAT'S GREAT ABOUT YOU

Discovering your personal greatness is one of the keys to increasing your confidence. In this speech we explore the truths about confidence, what we need to develop it and how to build evidence-based confidence, for increased success. Using the GREAT acronym, you will discover lost competencies and successes that you can use as an Imposter Syndrome buster, and, to help you become more impactful in your career/life.

HOW TO BE A BAD ASS TEAM

This speech focuses on how you as an individual can impact your team's collective badassery, by stepping into your confidence, facing the inevitable and using questions to impact positive change in your team environment. We will explore how questions create an environment for badassery, how to step into your individual confidence for collective success, how facing the inevitable can keep your team ahead of the game and lastly how to be BOLD.

THE TOOLS OF EMPOWERMENT

Sometimes we don't feel powerful, and sometimes we feel like that we must continue to say yes to things we don't that don't honour us, to stay small. We can be afraid to make mistakes, undermine our value, and struggle to feel on top. Other times we step into our power yet struggle to bask in its glow. It's not that we don't have power, we inherently know that we do, we just need some tools to help us galvanise that power. This high energy speech shows you how to do just that!

What Madeline's Clients Say

O<sub>2</sub>

Madeline was recommended to the O2 Women's Network as an inspirational, motivating speaker and she definitely exceeded her introduction. She delivered a fantastic session on personal development ensuring our 150+ attendees were equipped with enthusiasm and tools to be the best version of themselves - all over a Webex platform, no easy task.

Clare Bliss, Bid Manager – O2 Women's Network

GIC

Thank you, Madeline McQueen, for being magnificent, whilst teaching us to be the same. The sessions you ran for us have been insightful, inspiring and thought-provoking. Our post-event survey yielded top marks in every category. Highly recommended.

Dimple Mistry - Head of Human Resources, Senior VP at GIC Limited

BLOOM

Once again, I can't thank you enough for being part of Bloomfest. Many people have referenced your session as being the one that they will be most likely to act upon in order to improve and reset, which is wonderful feedback.

Conference and Event Host

Every successful event is held together by a strong thread that keeps things running tightly to schedule and helps to create a warm, energetic and inviting environment that delights its audience. This thread is crucial in binding together not just the audience but also the speakers, presenters, and panellists. Madeline McQueen is such a thread.

Her authentic, engaging style is seasoned with vivacity, humour and humility as she guides the audience through your event. She ensures your event is seamless and engaging, keeping audiences in their seats.

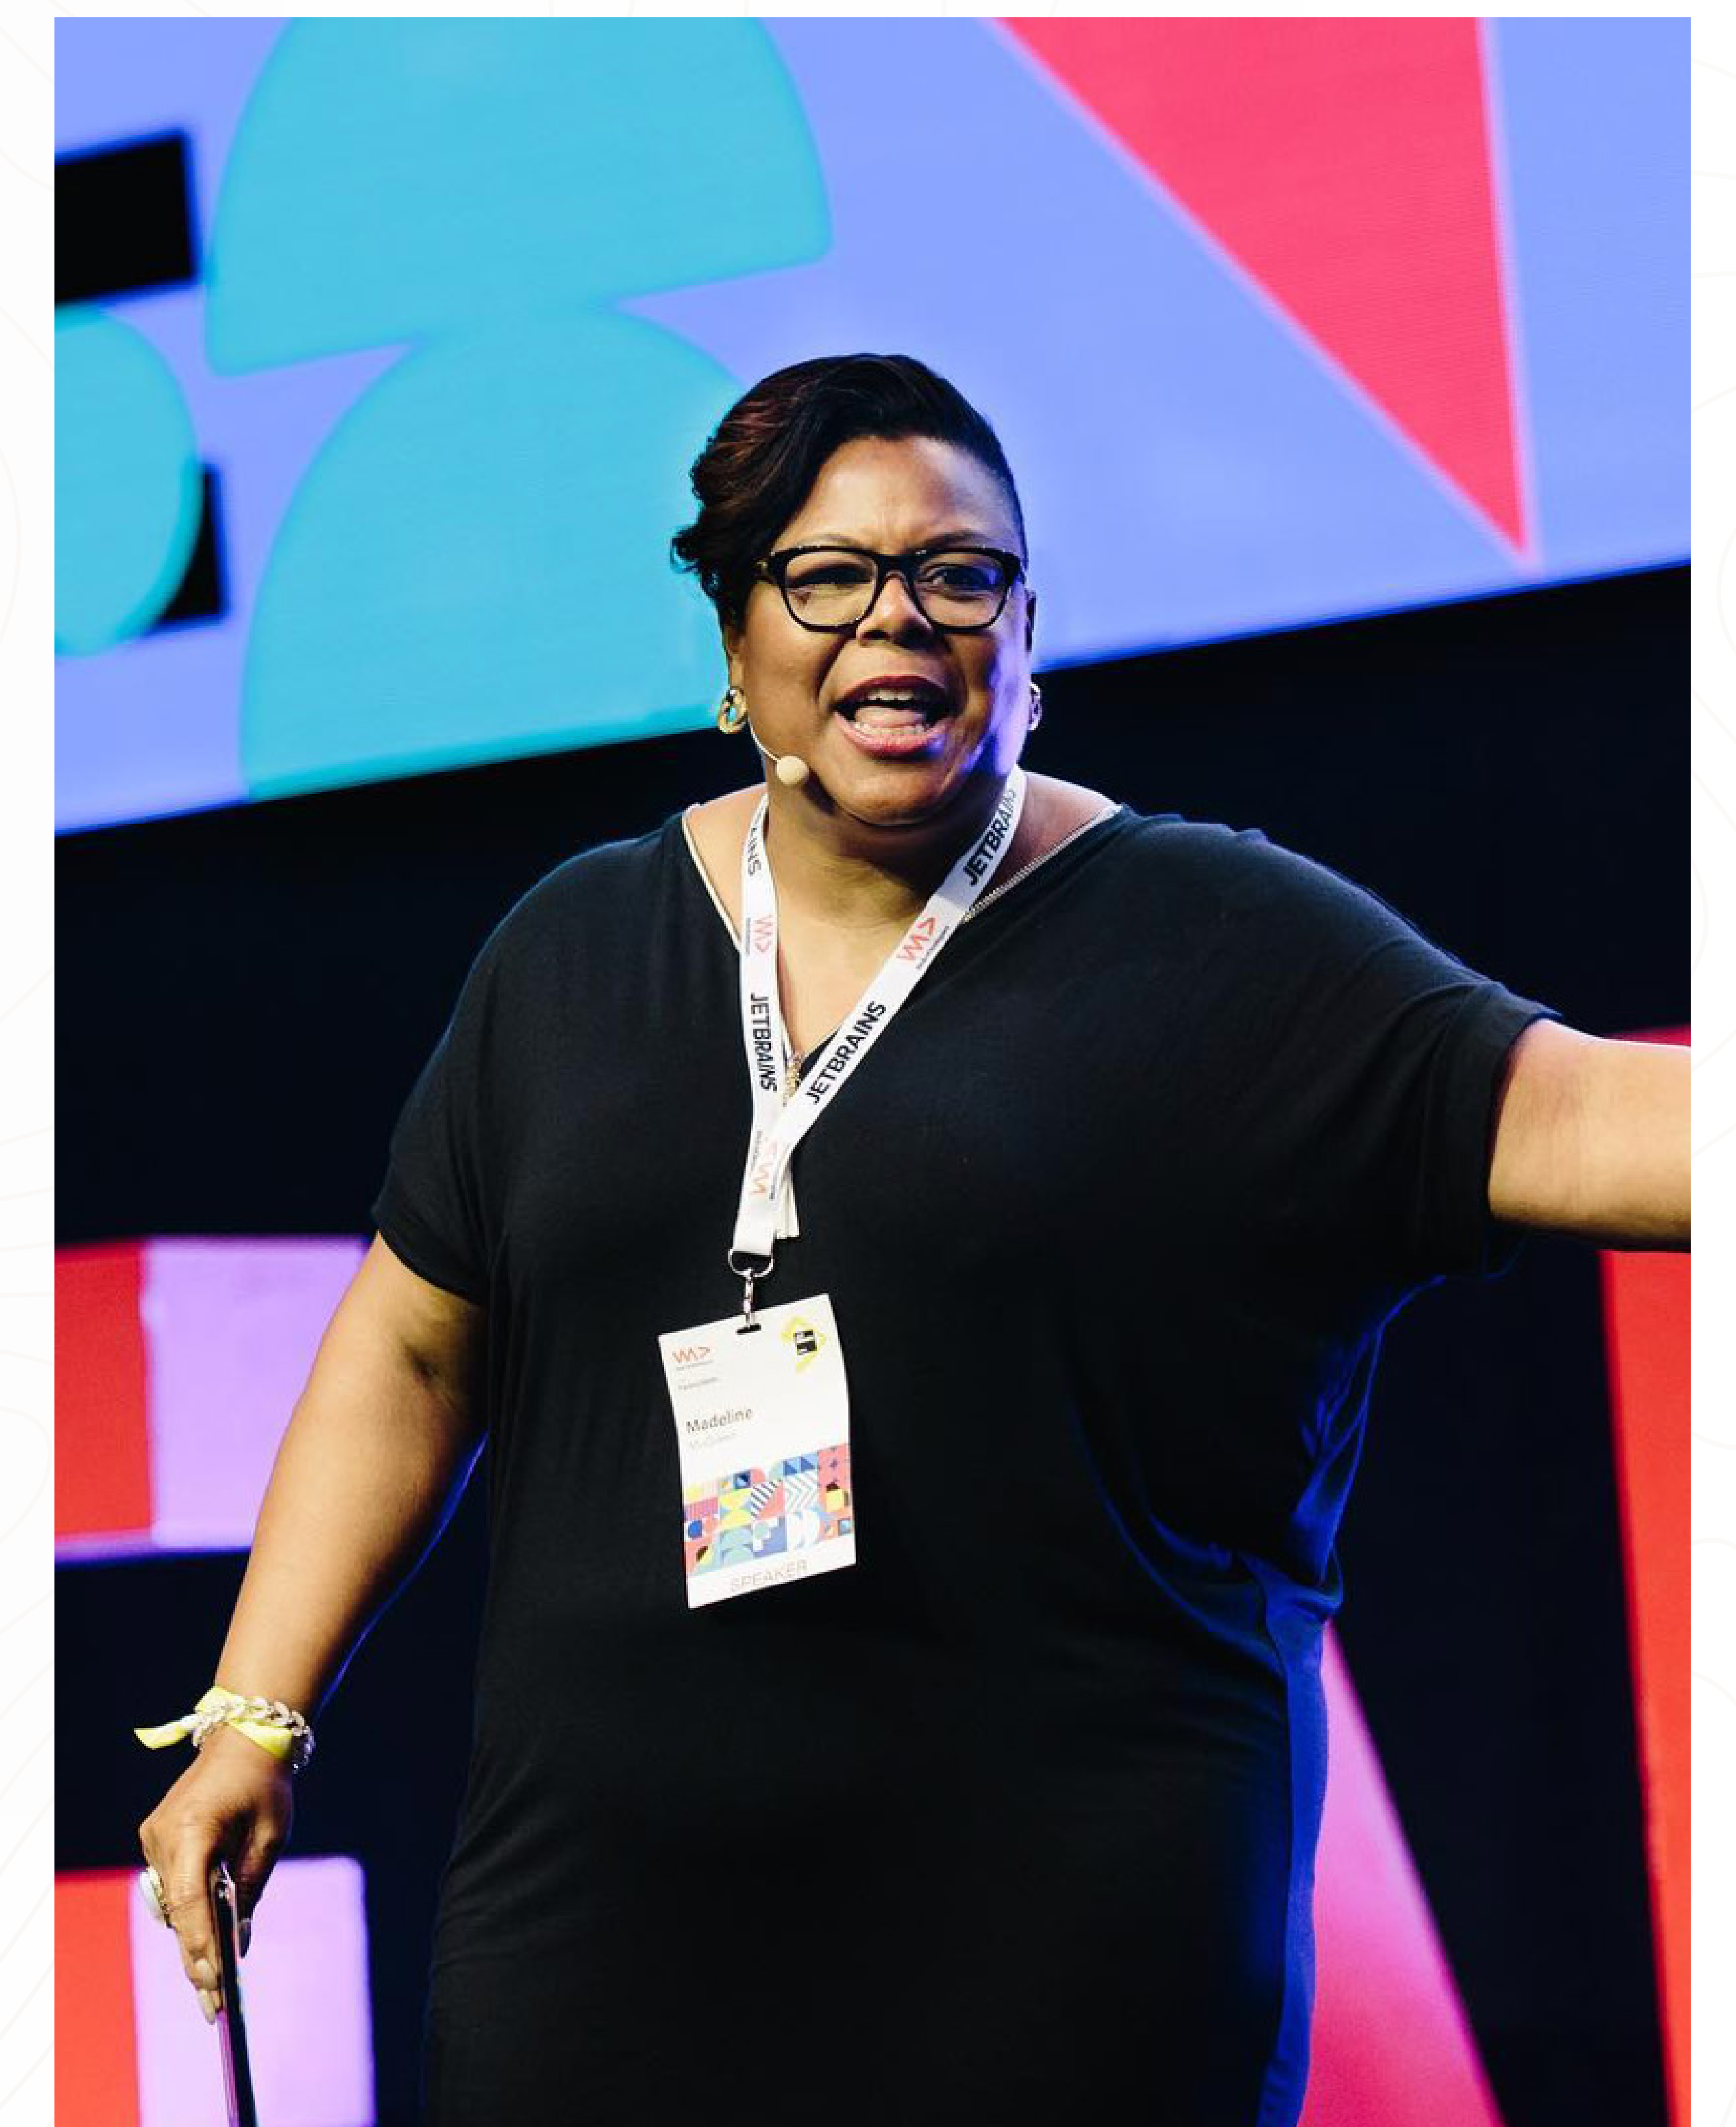

Madeline is able to build and sustain a stimulating atmosphere whilst ensuring, through her organisational skills, that your event runs to time. Her professionalism, warmth and energy can transform even the most challenging events into a great experience for all.

Madeline certainly knows how to build confidence in others and empower them to deliver at their best. When asked to pose questions to speakers and/or panellists, she does so meaningfully, ensuring that they are the focus and that the question asked is answered.

She copes effortlessly with mishaps and keeps the audience informed and engaged. Audiences want more than just great content; they want a great experience.

Madeline ensures that she adequately prepares for the event and always seeks to understand what her clients want to create for the day.

What Madeline's Clients Say

Madeline was able to bring life into our software developing conferences, which is not an easy task. She prepared for the event took her job seriously and did an excellent job on stage.

We especially liked her since she is brave enough to shake up our often-introverted audience and make them dance! (Not an easy job!)

We trusted her with our biggest stage where she entertained and kept informing 1,300 people. Based on her successfully delivered MC role at Craft we invited her to be our MC at our Crunch conference as well.

Medea Baccifava — Head of Conference at Prezi

Madeline has delivered excellence for our conferences for two years running.

She lights up the stage and keeps a tech heavy event light and fun. She is extremely professional and organised, setting both the speakers and the audience at ease.

WeAreDevelopers

Morgan Stanley

You were so awesome on Stage! Love your voice and personality!

Anna Szikszay-Fabri – Morgan Stanley

Thank you for being such a wonderful emcee.
